Selectmen's Meeting

PARK PLAN OPPOSED

Mattapoisett Selectmen unanimously voted against the proposed State Park plan which has been the subject of much opposition during the past 3 weeks. The park proposition in the Holly Woods area was presented as a conservation and nature trail facility. Mr. Robert Yaro, Chief Planner for the Department of Environmental Management, had stated during the previous meetings with the residents of the town that the state does not usually proceed with such a park unless it is with the approval and participation of the people of the community.

The Boardman family had offered the land to the state for park purposes in order to preserve it in its present natural state.

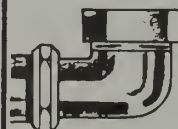

Opposition was varied - because the proposed park was without fence to allow animals to roam freely, was a checkerboard with private property, narrow access road, safety problems, beach problems and vandalism problems.

The Mattapoisett Town Meeting has been continued to July 21st. A public hearing on the proposed zoning change on Matta-found in the earth around your home or in Mattapoisett. Perhaps we can help you identify some of those wonderments, like arrow heads, coins, pottery shards, bones, rocks, etc. etc. Everyone has a little spot with these treasures hidden away; bring them down!

We have added a new section to the carriage house upstairs, featuring a dress makers shop. Many gowns and men's clothes and elegant children's dresses will be shown for the first time. These show a style and way of life that perhaps shall never again be matched.

We will be warping the 1700 floor loom that came from the old Hiller Homestead at Aucoot (the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Alden) during the summer, as well as two smaller looms from the home. Watch the Presto for the dates. Mrs. Margaret Holmes of Norwood, a long-time weaving instructor, will be happy to answer questions about weaving at this time, as she works. We have a small Inkle loom set up for you to try your hand at weaving.

For those who like the third dimension ask to see the Museum's great collection of stereoscopic worldwide pictures of interest taken in the late 1800s. Six viewers go with the set, so bring a friend and relax.

Remember we are air conditioned.

Marion Parade 4th of July

Junior Misses are chosen for their personality as much as their beauty as this good sport, Margot Fernandes of Wareham, demonstrates. Her beautiful convertible Cadillac faltered during the march and Margot changed "horses" in mid-parade as the rescue truck did its thing.

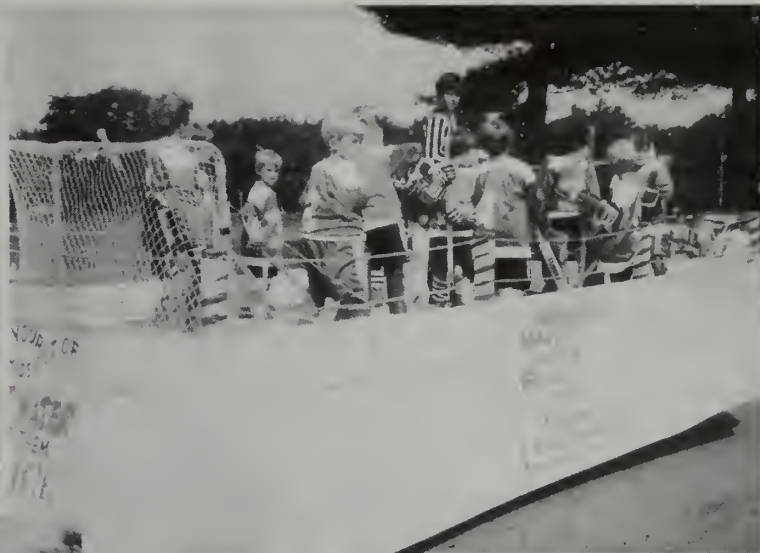

Left - "We love a parade", the wide smiles of these kids testify. Balloons and spirits soar on the sidelines of the march.

Below - A favorite float passes in review and asks the question "Have you hugged your pet today?" The close-up right shows a snap brimmed topped motorist courteously allowing a dog to safely cross the highway as he proclaims "I brake for Animals".

Floats of all sizes were in the march and some of the smallest drew the biggest cheers. This farmer and his happy pig were pushing books for the library lovers.

Rochester Hockey featured this game in progress as the hockey players pressed in at the goal. The float placard says "Keep your kids out of hot water, put them on ice".

A car of the future silently eases down the street powered by steam.

Miss Wareham, Lynn Joan Mallette, smiles at the crowd as she passes in review.

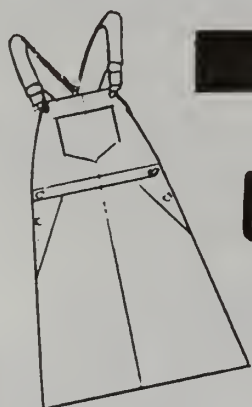

The poppy drive for disabled veterans was the theme for Marion's V.F.W. float as servicemen's patriotism and sacrifice for the U.S. is honored.

Small nurses and housekeepers serve their "patients and children" as this community service is saluted.

Sports of all kinds march under the banner of the Marion Recreation Program.

O.H. Puppeteers

Fifteen fifth grade students from Old Hammondtown School presented a puppet show for the public on June 16. The following day they delighted the students from Center and Old Hammondtown Schools with three more performances.

Their performances were the culmination of activities for the puppeteers. Since early February they have been busy, designing and making their puppets, developing back-drops for the production, and visiting other puppet productions.

Funding for this activity was the result of a mini-grant provided by the Mattapoisett School Committee. Mrs. Claire E.

The ship was built for the Bicentennial with funds raised by Baltimore's citizens, and the process of construction itself was a public event. The story follows an oddly assorted group who find themselves brought together on a mysterious island off the coast of England. One by one the guests are murdered, and those remaining realize that there is a murderer among them. Finally, only two are left - a boy and girl in love - and each is uncertain as to whether the other is the murderer. One of the most novel climaxes ever

In her annual address to the membership President Messier recalled that goals put forth last year had been achieved, including greater participation in community oriented projects and a move to larger facilities in downtown New Bedford. It will take even greater effort, she told members, to improve these facilities and continue to provide southeastern Massachusetts cities and towns with low cost, yet professional-style theatre.

Ms. Messier looked to support from those communities in the form of more participation and fund-raising. "Current inflationary circumstances," she said, "make sole reliance on ticket sales prohibitive. We thank those who have supported us in the past and look forward to even greater assistance in the coming year."

Approximately one hundred members and guests were in attendance.

The National Defense Committee chairman read excerpts from the DAR Magazine entitled "The Black Plague of Pornography" - Charles Keating's statement to the U. S. Senate Judiciary Committee relating the enormous amount of funds spent for advertising in the "porn" magazines - such as Hustler, Oui, Penthouse, Playgirl, etc. by companies whose products can be found in almost any household. One page of such advertising costs about $44,000 - and the ever-expanding pornography business now comes to around $400 billion.

This year's festival, co-sponsored by the City of New Bedford and WTEV-TV, Channel 6, will be an expansion of the Rediscover New Bedford Days of past years -- moved to the more spacious and accessible Piers 3 and 4. The entertainment is all free, runs continuously, and highly varied .. from Dixieland to the Nashville sound...Portuguese folk dancing to a Steel Band...mime to magicians. The foods will represent a glorious melange of tastes...seafoods of every description, Greek pastries, French meat pies, Portuguese favas, cocoilas and carne espeto, Italian sandwiches and pizzas, Cape Verdean favorites, a huge variety of typical American taste treats, and much, much more. And crafts -- crafts to suit every taste and every budget...a colorful and exciting display.

This is sure to be a memorable day -- or weekend -- for you and your entire family. The clowns will entrance the youngsters and those who are forever young-at-heart, and the dixieland or "big band" sounds will keep every toe tapping. So be sure you "Discover New Bedford's Many Worlds".

Mark your calendars today -- set aside the time.

Summer Cabaret Theater

The Southeastern Massachusetts University Summer Cabaret Theatre will present "Sly Fox" in cabaret style on two successive weekends - July 10, 11, 12, 13 and 17, 18, 19, 20, at 8:30 p.m. in the SMU Campus Center.

"Sly Fox" is Larry Gelbart's hilarious adaptation of Ben Jonson's "Volpone". Jonson set his classic satire in Venice, but it is really his own Elizabethan London he is making fun of. Gelbart has transferred the locale of "Volpone" to San Francisco a century ago.

"But greed is greed and men are men, and it doesn't really matter whether the locale is Venice, or London, or Frisco, or the time the present or the past. 'Volpone' under any other name is just as funny and just as relevant," says Director Angus Bailey.

For tickets and further information call 999-8167 or 999-8697.

"Taste of Honey"

The Institute on Health and Long Life at Southeastern Massachusetts University will again offer a "Taste of Honey" Program this summer. The week-long program, July 13th to July 19th, will include attendance at concerts, a full opera performance, a day

The 8th Annual Antique Car Show and Competition will be staged on Sunday, July 13, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Heritage Plantation of Sandwich. This annual event attracts about 100 antique and classic cars and has become one of the most popular attractions of the season. Spectators may inspect these antique cars and join in the fun by casting their votes that day on the Caron property off Grove Street, adjacent to the Old Windmill, on the Heritage Plantation grounds, one mile from the center of Sandwich. An added attraction will be an afternoon concert conducted by John R. Pandolfi. The ten winning cars
